GENOA

Genoa, the capital of the region Liguria, is a city with a lot to offer to those who have the desire and time to discover its secrets and to experience its fascinating history and traditions, as well as a lively and ever-changing present, with a vision towards the future.

Genoa's old town is the best example of an entirely preserved medieval town in Europe and in the Mediterranean area: a large part has been declared a World Heritage site by Unesco.

A stay in Genoa gives also the possibility of visiting the world-renowned village of Portofino and the marvellous Cinque Terre.

The origin of the name Genoa has different interpretations, but the most fascinating of them is that it comes from the Latin word janua, which means door...we like to think of the city as if it were a doorway as it has always been, where ships arriving at its port find a safe shelter and an entryway to the commercial streets of the continent. It can be considered a door to the cultures that throughout the centuries have created the city such as it is today.

Following this interpretation, our desire is that Genoa and the school A Door to Italy serves as the door to Italy for all people wishing to learn Italian language and culture!

THE COURSES

A Door to Italy offers a wide variety of general and specialised courses, geared to the specific needs of our students.

Courses are catered for groups or individuals coming from different countries and with different purposes. General language and cultural courses are available all year round.

More targeted courses offer Italian for professionals, such as Italian for business, Italian for professional interpreters and Italian for teachers.

Language classes are aimed at developing the student's general language competence and the ability to communicate in an international environment and in everyday situations, as well as at work and in social life situations. Throughout the course, learners expand their vocabulary repertoire and learn new grammatical structures, which they practice in the context and, further, they improve their ability to communicate, read and write fluently and correctly. At school we use the communicative method, preferring oral communication but not disregarding aspects of written ability, focusing on the four language abilities (listening, speaking, reading, writing).
